

Social issues connected to violence against women

About the workshop

This one-day workshop is suitable for professionals and individuals who wish to develop an understanding of female oppression.

Delivery method

The workshop is delivered in an experiential style to give participants an in-depth understanding of the issue. It is delivered by professional counsellors and draws upon their own experiences of challenging oppression to complement taught elements of the programme.

Learning objectives

On completion of this workshop participants will:

- Understand the levels of oppression that exist in today's society.
- Understand the sources of oppression and the messages that women receive from a range of sources about their position in society.
- Understand the impact of oppression on women.
- Recognise the links between female oppression and sexual violence.

Course costs vary depending on the number of participants and location of training. To discuss your requirements, or to find out about further programmes and our bespoke training and consultancy services, please contact Eva Training & Consultancy on 01642 490 677 or go to www.eva-training.org.uk